

I did project Grocery shop in Android Studio where I used kotlin for back-end language , xml for frontend language and used room database. In my grocery app , it help user to add items in theor cart and then they can calculate quantity.